EXCERPT I

“Has the Nepali economy performed badly in spite of foreign aid or is it because of the dependence on foreign aid?”

EXCERPT II

“With the controversy about foreign aid being what it is, it is now a question of value judgement whether this is to be considered good (because Nepal is receiving more aid not only in absolute terms but also relative to GDP) or bad (because Nepal is now less self-reliant than it was in the previous decades).”

EXCERPT III

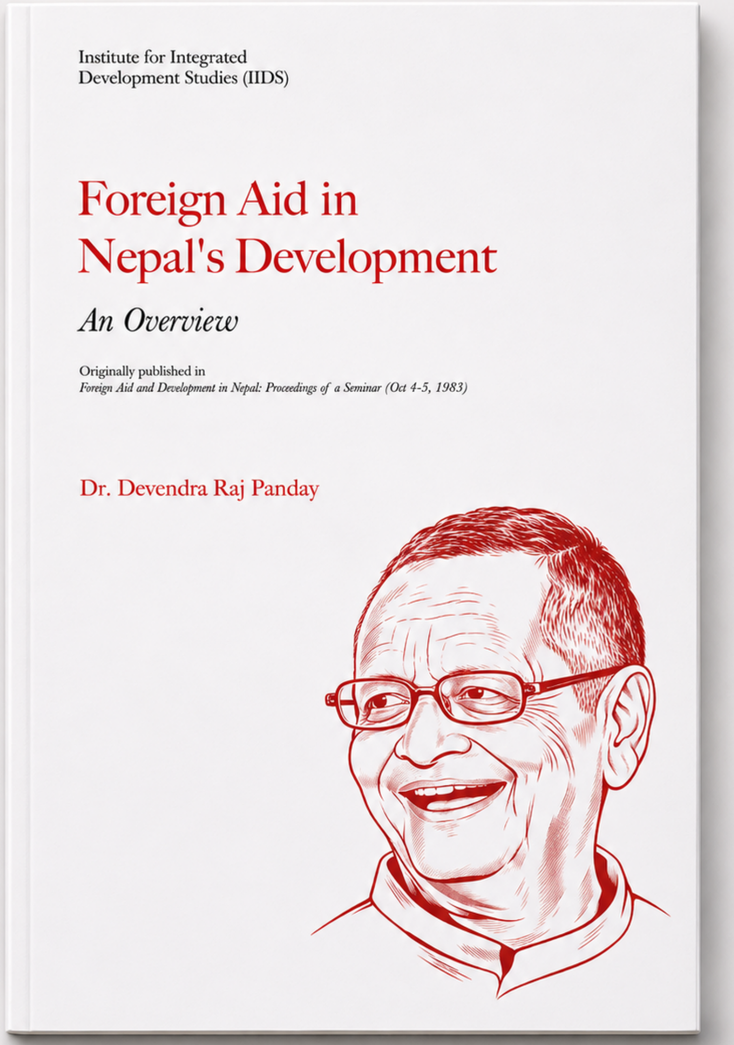

“Above all, Nepal has now a large reservoir of trained manpower which has been made possible by external assistance to a great extent.”

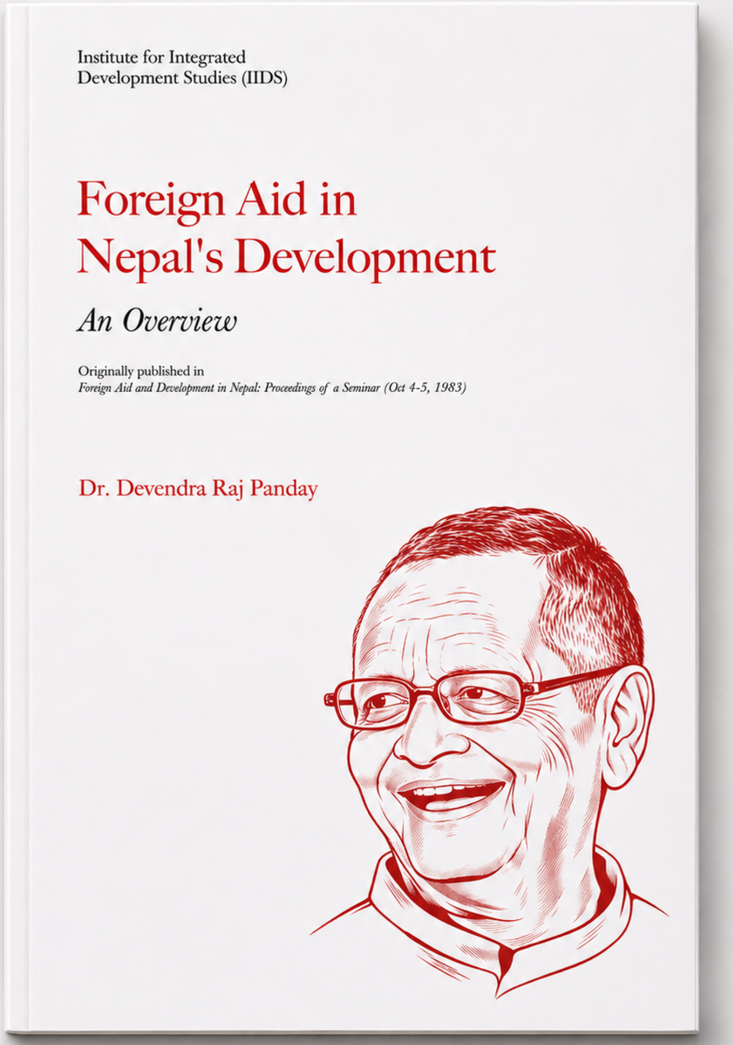

Institute for Integrated
Development Studies (IIDS)

Foreign Aid in Nepal's Development

An Overview

Dr. Devendra Raj Panday

Institute for Integrated
Development Studies (IIDS)
Foreign Aid in
Nepal's Development
An Overview
Originally published in
Foreign Aid and Development in Nepal: Proceedings of a Seminar (Oct 4-5, 1983)
Dr. Devendra Raj Panday